statement banning sales of liquor in Georgia pending local elections issued yesterday by T. Grady Head, revenue commissioner:

Whereas, under an act of the general assembly of Georgia, approved February 3, 1938, it is provided in Section 27 of said act as follows:

"Any person found in possession or control of more than one quart of spiritous, vinous or alcoholic liquor, in any county of this state (except such counties in which liquor may be le-gally sold or transported under terms of this act) shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction, punishable as in cases of misdemeanors." And

Whereas, the legislative intent as expressed in Section 24 of

"It is the purpose and intention of this section to prevent the sale of liquor in any county other than those counties in which liquor may be legally sold under this act."

and construed in conjunction with Section 23-B, and other provisions of such act, it is made to appear that no whisky or liquors as defined in said act can be legally sold in said state, until after the adoption of said act by the voters in some county of state state, and, Whereas, Section 17 of said act makes it the duty of the state revenue commissioner, as follows:

"The revenue commissioner or agents, are also authorized, and it shall be their duty to secure warrants or other form of criminal process against all of-fenders in counties where the sale of distilled spirits and alcohol is not authorized under the terms of this act, and in counties where the sale of distilled spirits and alcohol is authorized un-der the terms of this act but where the same is being sold contrary to the provisions hereof, and the revenue commissioner, o his agents, are authorized, and it shall be their duty to prosecute such offenders." Acting Sheriff James D. Bazemore was made defendant in a $30,000 damage suit filed in Fulton superior court yesterday in which Roy E. Lunsford alleged the sheriff ran over and killed his wife in an automobile accident November 26.

The suit contends Mrs. Lunsford was struck as she was crossing Lee street by a south-bound car driven by Bazemore. She died alinstantly, it was claimed.

State Revenue Commissioner. AL CAPONE TO STAY IN ALCATRAZ PRISON

Former Gang Chieftain Lucid at Times, Justice Department Reveals.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.-(A)-Al Capone is suffering from intermittent mental disturbances but the greater part of the time his mind is lucid, the Justice Department announced today.

And for the time being, at least, Capone will remain in the Alcatraz island prison hospital in San Francisco bay.

The department issued a statement on the Capone illness because of speculation about his conditions since a psychiatrist visited him 10 days ago. It said:

"All Capone is in the hospital at Alcatraz. He is suffering from intermittent mental disturbances. For the greater part of the time his mind is lucid. His condition is in no wise due to his confine-ment, but grows out of conditions originating prior to his incarcera-tion. He is under competent med-

Irium contained in BOTH Pepsodent Tooth Powder and Pepsodent Tooth Paste

 Very often the natural radiance and luster of your teeth become hidden by dingy, masking surface-stains . . . just as the sun is often hidden behind clouds.

You may have despaired when you noticed how those stubborn, clinging surface-stains still remained—despite faithful scrubbing and scrubbing of your teeth. If so, put the blame where it really belongs—namely, on that old-fashioned, "horse-and-buggy" dentifrice you've probably been using.

Today, resolve to try Pepsodent containing remarkable Irium! Examine your teeth in the mirror before you brush them with Pepsodent. Then put Pepsodent to work on those stubborn surface-stains! Afterwards, notice that your teeth are far brighterbrighter, we believe, than if you had used any other dentifrice! And this glorious natural radiance is brought about SAFELY-be-

GOLD AND CREDIT

The effect on industry and business generally of the partial abandonment of the gold sterilization program, announced by Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau, is largely like that of placing a seventh dinner before a toothless man unable to eat the six already served.

Under the new regulation, $100,000,000 of acquired gold may be added to the credit base of the nation every three months, thus adding that much potential credit to the total already resting in the nation's banks. However, there is already approximately $1,400,000,000 of lendable excess reserves in the banks, whereas Chairman Marriner S. Echols, of the Federal Reserve Board, has stated that $500,000,000 is ample to finance normal business needs.

Certainly the amount of credit now available is far greater than the amount available in 1929, prior to the business crash.

It is little use to increase the business credit available until business generally is placed in position to use that credit for the expansion and increase of manufacturing and distributing so vitally necessary. The truth is that restrictions placed upon private business have made it impossible for the average enterprise to increase its operations. No businessman, struggling under undivided profits tax and the capital gains tax, can use either capital or credit

The prime need of private industry today is for repeal of these two punitive taxes. They are, in the opinion of business men generally, the chief reasons for the recession which hit the country last fall and, until they are either removed or drastically modified, there can be no hope for the expansion of private enterprise which must come before the slack in employment and distribution of goods can be

The de-sterilization of up to $100,000,000 in newly acquired gold each quarter will have a beneficial effect on the financial situation of the government. By that amount it will reduce the treasury borrowing necessary and will thus tend to reduce, or retard the increase of, the national deficit.

The ruling will also, to some extent, be inflationary in character. It is impossible to increase the total currency or credit of the nation by any appreciable amount without inflationary reaction. That is a simple law of financial cause and effect, as automatic as the law of supply and demand.

However, regardless of these secondary results, the de-sterilization move merely adds to an already overflowing national credit base. Until the shackles of the restrictive tax laws are removed, private business will be unable to respond, as it would like to, to the demand for increased activity, regardless of the amount of

There is already more credit than business in its present circumstances can use. Those crippling taxes should be removed at once, thus permitting business to launch a program of enlarged activity, using both the old and the new credit resources, that will quickly multiply employment and bring a new era of prosperity for the entire nation.

WORK WELL BEGUN

Thirty-one years ago, in 1907, the first free clinic in Atlanta for the treatment of tuberculosis was established by the Fulton County Medical Society. Two years later that clinic was formally organized into the Anti-Tuberculosis and Visiting Nurse Association.

Today the Atlanta Tuberculosis Association, descendant of that pioneer body, holds its 29th annual meeting, marking another milestone in a record of unselfish service and increasing benefit in the cause of humanity.

The ancient records show that in 1909, the first year of the organization's existence, 369 clinics were held, with 607 cases treated. Thirtyfive per cent of these were found to be positive cases of tuberculosis.

Last year, 1937, 1,399 clinics were held, 4,286 people were served and the positive cases had dropped to 21 per cent. Modern methods of treatment, better knowledge of preventative work and better understanding of the disease by the public-resulting in earlier diagnosis-has brought about a great decrease in the death rate in Fulton county by tuberculosis. Much of this must be attributed to the work of the association and the unstinted free service given by the many physicians on its staff.

The association is supported, partially, by the Community Chest, but depends upon private subscriptions and the proceeds of the annual Christmas seal sales for one-third of its revenue. The work it is doing is proving marvelously effective, but the need is even yet greater than the ability to meet it. More liberal financial support would result in more lives saved, more children rescued from the peril of tuberculosis in the dawning years of life.

VALE, CHAIN GANG

Launching of a new prison system in Georgia marks the passing of the chain gangs, institutions which, admittedly not the best, nevertheless did not deserve all the opprobrium attached to the name in other parts of the nation and the world.

The new system is a long step forward toward the ideal of humanitarian regeneration of character which, ultimately, will displace the idea of punishment from all penology. Georgia, in one year, has accomplished a reform which experts anticipated would require five. and today the state can point to a prison set-up which, when in full operation, will challenge the admiration of all states.

The chain gangs which fade from the Georgia scene were unfortunately named. Some prisoners, the incorrigibles, had to be shackled when worked on the roads and without anything to prevent escape except the guards. But the prisoner who behaved himself was, in most cases, better off on one of these work units than if held in a prison behind bars and stone walls. It was only the occasional exception that gave the chain gangs their bad name.

In the new system, in fact, work gangs will still be maintained by the state, but they will be manned by convicts who have won the privilege by good behavior. The incorrigibles will be kept at the new Tattnall prison, a model for such institutions, where escape will be as nearly impossible as human ingenuity can make it.

The lash and the dreaded "sweat box" have been banned by rules of the old prison board for years. Now they will be forever outlawed.

Segregation of young prisoners and first offenders will be possible under the new plan and industries operated at the Tattnall prison will provide occupation for all incarcerated there. Thus the lack of work which does more to sap character than anything else, will also be a

An important feature proposed is that all prisoners paroled in the future must be first cured of disease. It is revealed by the records that 40 per cent of convicts are afflicted with syphilis, one of the worst plagues of the modern world. Syphilis not only ravages the physical being, but eventually attacks the brain and breaks down the moral character of many of its

Modern medical science can cure this disease, if used in time. No greater sten toward rehabilitation of the individual character could be taken than the cure of this, and other diseases, before the prisoner is again returned

Georgia begins a new day in penology. Instead of the name of the state being held up to scorn, even though largely undeserved, she should become a model upon which other states can base reforms in their own prison systems.

THE NAZI SHAKE-UP (From the Nashville Banner.)

The slipping cogs of the Rome-Berlin axis are blamed, in part at least, on what Mussolini and Hitler regard as Ulrich von Hassel's failure to co-operate fully in the joint efforts of the two Fascist nations to weld an unbreakable link between them. The German ambassador's lukewarm attitude toward the Nazi program was presumed to be a foremost topic of the two dictators in their recent conference. The wide scope of the contemplated diplomatic and military shake-up, however, was not anticipated. That it comes now, as a move designed to substitute for lukewarm Nazi leaders zealots of the breed of Hans Frank—author of the prophecy that "heads would roll" under Hitler—is a sign of desperate strategy to curb whatever hostility exists within Germany to that nation's program of Nazi domination at home and abroad. At present both Hitler and Mussolini are concentrating on the campaign to Nazify the Austrian governm The only recent sign of Nazi expansion on the continent came with Rumania's adoption of dic-tatorship, this time in the person of the King. The most discouraging experience of Hitler's interna-tional program—to him—has been Austria's failure to adopt Naziism as the form of government, a rebuff directly critical of Hitler policies in general and Der Feuhrer in particular. Hermann

Kriedal, ardent left-winger, is expected to go to Vienna to deal with this delicate situation. World significance attaches to these diplomatic shifts, which may hold the secret of Fascist expansion into fertile territories. Both Italy and Germany now suffer from economic paralysis inlavish spending for rearmament. Nationalistic practices account, in part, for this situation, but each proposes internationalism now only in the extent to which enlistment of new powers "Nazi entente" would make possible a golden transfusion.

THE CAPITAL PARADE

By JOSEPH ALSOP AND ROBERT KINTNER.

MONETARY MOVES WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.-The ghost of Professor George Warren, the celebrated chicken-coop and commodity dollar expert, is walking the Treasury's fusty corridors these winter afternoons. Little knots of experts have suddenly begun to gather, and such phrases as "com-modity prices," "the level of 1926" and the like are to be heard again, floating through the transoms. The recent rather tentative abandonment of gold sterilization was beautifully meaningless, except in so far as it portended a new crop of white rabbits. This winter of our discontent was bound to produce white rabbits—they are the principal crop in depressions. Now they are on the way. Monetary tinkering is in the air.

More interesting than the desterilization move itself was the manner of its announcement. At the Treasury press conference, did most of the talking. Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr., tongue-tied as usual on technical matters, hovered in the background, radiating a mild glumness. Neither man vouchsafed any explanation of the reasons behind the virtual abandonment of

HENRY'S NOTIONS In spite of his glumness, Secretary Morgenthau was the actual father of the desterilization step. His economic advisers sold him the notion that, once sterilization was jettisoned, gold flowing into the banking system would give a fillip to commodity prices. Although Professor Warren has been banished to a New Deal Siberia, his notions still have important currency at the Treasury. In modified form, they become Secretary Morgenthau's notions. Neither the glib Eccles nor the glum Morgenthau would explain their desterilization step, precisely because they wanted it to look as inflationary as possible. While neither man wished to commit himself in advance of the President, the fact is that they think commodity prices are now too low.

Such men as Chairman Eccles have been clamoring for months about prices being too high. But now a sharp distinction is being made between commodity prices, which have dropped sharply, and the rigid, monopolistically fixed prices which distort the whole price structure. The betting is rather strong that, when and if the President makes his price pronunciamento Friday, he will take a similar The careful avoidance of any explanation of the desterilization step was especially significant, since a perfectly good, noninflationary explanation was ready to hand. Even the President has now acknowledged that a serious depression exists. Chairman Eccles and Secretary Morgenthau could easily have said for the record that, when sterilization was resorted to, a dangerous boom was beginning, whereas now, in bad times, sterilization was unnecessary and THE LITTLE RABBITS As has been remarked, a depression makes Washington a regular white rabbit farm. And when they start talking about gold and commodity prices in the same breath, you can expect the white rabbits to be monetary in nature.

"If the depression deepens in the next six months," one high administration official said today, "you haven't seen anything yet in the way of monetary moves."

Just what they will be, only an all-wise Providence can predict. As yet, sentiment among the experts is strongly against fooling around with the value of the dollar. The power to do so has been carefully conserved, as a sort of emergency fire exit. But since this is a Roosevelt, not a Hoover depression, there is a strong psychology against doing anything too striking. Political melodrama is now feared as a sort of confession of New Deal failure.

More popular is complete desterilization, going not only to gold inflowing in the future, but also to the $1,250,000,000 of gold now salted away in the Treasury's sock. Secretary Morgenthau is fighting this tooth and nail, just as he is fighting resumption of pumppriming. But Chairman Eccles is strongly for immediate spending. with complete desterilization to pay for it. And in this he has the backing of important and powerful banking interests, as well as of the labor groups and the New Deal left-wingers.

MARRINER AND HENRY An interesting, positive, but generally overlooked, aspect of the desterilization move is that it re-emphasizes the Treasury's control of the national gold policy. Secretary Morgenthau presented the original desterilization scheme to Chairman Eccles just as he has now taken the lead in desterilization.

And the fact is that, if the Treasury is to control gold policy it has an indirect control over credit policy. Gold policy and credit policy are too inextricably intertwined to permit of any separation. Whatever the Treasury does about gold is bound to have the strongest repercussions in the credit situation.

The Treasury has solemnly promised the Reserve Board to consult it before making any moves regarding gold, and Reserve Board feelings are not particularly bruised. But the fact is significant, since the board is supposed to be an independent supreme court of finance. Now, should an issue ever arise between the Treasury and the board, the President, who is the Treasury, would have the whip Copyright, 1938, for The Constitution and North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)

FAIR ENOUGH The Dog Trained To Herd Sheep Is Educated As Well As · A Show Dog

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

Education, according to the dictionary, is the training of mental and moral powers by a system of study and discipline, or by the experiences of life. The first method is called formal education, and any reference to education usually means that kind.

It is doubtless the best method of training a great number of young people, of all degrees of intelligence, in the shortest space of time, but it isn't the most effective method.

We learn only through our senses, and the more senses we use, the better we learn.

If a lecturer in a medical school describes the dissecting of a cadaver, no member of the class will remember how it is done. If he does the dissecting while describing it, some of the students may remember what they see. But if the students themselves do the dissecting while listening to instructions, they will learn more in one day than they could learn in weeks of listening or watching.

The quickest and surest way to learn is to learn by doing. Most of our formal education is acquired from books, but the men who wrote the books learned by doing-whether the books concern astronomy, geography, surgery or electrical engineering.

Text of President's Statement on Signing the Farm Bill

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—(AP)— The following is the text of the statement issued by President Roosevelt today when he signed the tarm bill.

Today as I sign the agricultural adjustment act of 1938 my mind goes back five years to the day in March, 1933, when I rec-ommended to the congress the passage of the original adjust-ment act to rescue farmers from the intolerable plight of the de-pression. At that time I recognized frankly we were taking "a new and untrod path." But events have shown that in re-jecting inaction at that time and jecting inaction at that time and in determining to face the problem and meet it directly with a farm program which could be im-proved as circumstances required, we chose wisely. Great progress has been made since the agricultural adjustment act of 1933 went into effect.

"Basic Principles."

Gradually, through these year the basic principles of national farm policy have become clear.

By experience we have learned what must be done to assure to agriculture a fair share of an increasing national income, to pro-vide consumers with abundant supplies of food and fiber, to stop waste of soil, and to reduce the gap between huge surpluses and disastrous shortages. The nation is now agreed that we must have greater reserves of food and feed to use in years of damaging weather and to help iron out extreme ups and downs of price. We are agreed that the real and lasting progress of the people of farm and city alike will come, not from the old familiar cycle of glut and scarcity, not from the succession of boom and collapse, but from the steady and sustained exchange of things that human ington advocated federal legisla-tion to serve these ends. During the recess of the congress, con mittees were at work. The task was complex and difficult. In order that the congress might have opportunity to complete leg-islation in time to meet this year's farm problems, I summoned the special session last November.

This act is the result.

The agricultural adjustment act of 1938 represents the winning of one more battle for an analysis of the second secon underlying farm policy that will endure. Therefore it is historic legislation. It is not perfection but it is the constructive product of the able and sincere work of many men. I believe the overwhelming majority of the people will commend members of congress and others who have devoted themselves to the making of this law. As we go ahead under the new act, let us resolve to ture and all our people.

Law's Beginning.

It will be put into operation as quickly as possible, and in the meantime I ask that all those who are doing or will do spring plant-ing govern their operations in the light of this new law.

While the new act makes many important changes in the existing plan for the benefit of agriculture, it is to be noted that, with one exception—the provision for "parity" payments—the improved plan for agricultural adjustment does not entail any greater annual cost than the sum authorized under the present one, which is known as the soil conservation and domestic allotment act. Parity payments would increase the present authorized cost, and in order to make such payments it would be necessary to provide additional revenue needed to finance them.

Such a quota system would seek hold 1938 production and marketing of cotton to around 10.750. 000 bales, compared with last year's crop of 18,747,000 ables. The production goal for flue-cured to-bacco will be set at about 700,000,-000 pounds compared with approximately 800,000,000 last year.

As a step toward holding production to the goal level, the secretary said he would establish a national cotton acreage allotment of between 26,000,000 and 26,500,-000 acres, compared with more than 34,000,000 planted last year.

The surplus cotton from last year's crop was estimated at around 13,-

000,000 bales.

The national allotment would be apportioned among the cotton states and counties probably within 10 days, Wallace said, and county allotments would be di-vided among individual growers by local farmer committees. Under the quota system, each farmer would be permitted to market all the cotton produced on his alloted acreage. Cotton produced on land in excess of his allotment would be subject to a penalty tax of two cents a pound if marketed.

Wallace said only those farmers who staved within their acreage allotments would be eligible for benefit payments under the $500,soil conservation program which the new legislation, con-

Educator Ridicules Journalism Schools

CHICAGO, Feb. 16.—(P)-Dr. Robert M. Hutchins, president of the University of Chicago, told the Inland Daily Press Association today "The shadiest educational ventures under respectable auspices are the schools of journalism."

Speaking on "What Education Cannot Do," the educator lumped journalism and public service with charm, personality and "how to get married and like it" as subjects which cannot be taught.

"What education cannot do," he asserted, "is to prepare men and women for specific jobs. All it can hope to do is to train their minds so that they can adjust themselves to any job."

Inspector Insists on Removal of Debris From Yard and Alley in 24 Hours.

By YOLANDE GWIN. "Tin Can Alley" is clean today. And all because two girls rolled and an because two girs rolled up their sleeves and got to work after being served a copy of charges by G. W. Whitehead, sanitary inspector of Fulton county.

Yesterday morning Whitehead strolled down the side alley which borders No. 15 Eagah avenue, near

There were entirely too many tin cans in the yard and driveway and, in fact, said Whitehad, the place wasn't clean of cans as it should be. He would give them a copy of the charges. Whitehead decided and have the place cleaned up in 24 hours. That was according to law anyway.

But Whitehead reckoned without the clean-up campaign staged yesterday afternoon by the Misses Doris Golden and Dorothy Foster, both of whom live at No. 15 Eagan avenue. Today the charge against the residents at the place is useless, for the cans are well out of the way—in a hole.

"Word to the Wise."

When the charges were given to Mrs. F. B. Clanton, in the name of her husband, F. B. Clanton, there was mild excitement in the family. "Mr. Whitehead can't do that," was the cry. He couldn't call the law on them, they said. "We'll show him and the law too," and more than that, they said they would do it in less than 24 hours. would do it in less than 24 hours.

Mrs. Clanton's sister, Doris Golden, and her girl friend, Dorothy Foster, who lives at the same address, donned overalls, rolled up their sleeves and got to work.

First they dug a hole 10 feet eep. Then they picked up all deep. Then they picked up an the tin cans and dumped them in the hole and covered them with

After disposing of the cans they decided it would be a good idea to start a vegetable garden, so as dusk was falling they had forgotten all about the sanitary inspector, the copy of charges, tin cans and all. They were making bets on their crops. Said Dorothy Dishing the dirt and by the shovelful, too! That's what the Misses Dorothy Foster, left, and Doris Golden are doing. Mother Earth came to the aid of the two farmerettes as they piled dirt into a holeful of tin cans to "cover up" evidence against them. They also favor the "back-to-the-farm" movement, too, for they have begun a vegetable garden.

Nansen, Last of the Vikings, Belongs In Front Ranks of the Brave

OSLO, Norway-(By Mail)-As soon as I could I went up the mountain to where the ski museum was and found the old man in charge and persuaded him to open it.

In the museum are the skis which Fridtjof Nansen used to cross Greenland in 1888 and in it are Nansen's skis used in his desperate north pole attempt in 1893-96 when he took to skis when the Fram, his ship, was frozen in the ice. He and one Johansen set out on skis to try and march to the north pole.

To march to the north pole—it is possible to get the picture of those two men-tiny figures in the white immensity of the north struggling along on skis, pulling a sled-two men seeking the north pole.

They reached a latitude beyond 86 degrees-the highest latitude ever reached by man. There they had to turn back.

You may talk about your Vikings—Nansen was the last of them. They founded the city of Dublin and the Irish cities of Limerick and Waterford. They conquered much of France and Normandy remains. Erik, the Red, and Lief Erikson, his son, discovered new continents in their long black ships with the dragon's head high at the bow. They had no compass, they sailed by the stars. And Nansen, I think, was the last of them.

When he went searching for the north pole in 1893 there was no radio—no great base of supplies, no following support. There were only he and his bearded Norsemen and the tiny ship and their courage. And their skis.

YOU MAY SEE THERE.

You may see there, in the ski museum, the tattered tent they had and the stuffed body of the one dog that went with them. You may see there their old fur suits and their old cameras and their pitiful scientific equipment.

Their medicine supply was something majestic in its inadequacy. That expedition set out for—and almost reached—the north pole with a small bottle of cocaine, a small vial of toothache drops and another bottle of medicine to apply to cuts and wounds. That

You may see that and you may see the canvas boat-built of small tree branches for a frame-in which Nansen and three other men sailed for three months. No one has written the story of that craft—a crazy bundle of sticks covered with canvas -in which four big men crowded and somehow kept it affoat for four months as they came back from their quest, with the

The skis are there—worn and scuffed with the sharp ice. And one may find some of Nansen's books with the old photographs made on the ship and near it.

Well, I wish more Norwegians and Swedes would come to Their quotas are never used while the quotas of countries which have no Nansens and no tradition are used up

THE STATESMAN.

He lived to become a great statesman and a humanitarian, one who was to win the Nobel prize, did this last of the Vikings. He was Norway's voice in the League of Nations when that instrument seemed about to make something of the world. He personified, so they say, what the league should have been.

His toil for the starving millions in Russia is one story. There is another, a unique one. The boundaries of European nations are difficult to pass. After the World War there were millions without homes. Boundaries had been disrupted. Homeless thousands came to boundaries, starving, and could not cross. They had no passport. They had no government to give them

One day Nansen arose in the League of Nations and mad a plea. He asked them to be allowed to handle the situation There came into being the "Nansen passport." Thousands hav it yet. It is the passport of humanity, Nansen's passport, issued by the man who crossed Greenland on skis in the days when there were no communications and no supplies. He crosse with his skis and his rifle. He died some years ago, but Nanser remains a great figure and one very much alive in the mind of thousands of men and women whom he rescued. The pic tures of him as a young man and an old one show a magnificen

It was something of a story-something to make one stand at attention there to see the skis which in 1896 had marched closer to the north pole than any man had ever been before.

There are different brands of courage. I read the other day of a Japanese pilot who, when his airship caught fire, dived it into the hangers of the enemy. And I thought of Nansen

Spurgeon Says Shoulder Is Completely Healed, Ready for Big Year.

By EDWARD M. MILLSAP.

ATHENS, Ga., Feb. 16.-For the second straight year Spurgeon (Spud) Chandler is holding out on the New York Yankees.

When interviewed in Athens today he was reluctant to give out information but stated that he had sent two contracts back and was waiting for the third.

"The terms of both contracts were unsatisfactory and I am not going to sign until they come across with a better proposition," and of the others of his day and of later years; and of the Russians waiting a year on the ice in the interest of science and of other bravery. And I think I'll take Nansen's brand as being more brave and more worthwhile and useful.

A CURIOUS MUSEUM.

It is a curious museum—the ski museum. In it are Nansen's old equipment and also skis from all the north countriesand a piece of one which is authentically more than 1,500

The Lapps, those nomads of the frozen north countries, invented one device for snows which stamps them as superior in intelligence. They found that in climbing hills the skis slid backwards unless one climbed in the tiring "herring bone" climb.

This smart Lapp, nameless to posterity, put the hide of the deer on the bottoms of his skis with the hairy side next to the snow. But, he fixed it so that as the skis were pushed forward, they moved easily, the hair of the hide turned that way. And when the skis slid backwards, or tried to, the hair was rubbed the wrong way and the skis would not slide. .

There are skis there 15 feet long—the modern jumping ski is about seven feet long. There are skis there which were used some hundreds of years ago, being bound to the feet with leather thongs.

There are the skis and the medals of the members of the club who have won great championships and Olympic jumps with them. There are many interesting old relics of travel across the ice and snow.

But everyone who goes there remains for a long time in the room where Nansen's few bits of equipment are-speaking varsity started the second half but were again replaced by the substihis crew—as great a Viking as Norway ever produced.

Prominent Visitors From California 'Are Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Bartlett

By Sally Forth.

THE person who has done more, perhaps, to save the redwoods of California than any other person in the United States is a visitor in Atlanta. This staunch champion of the big trees is Mrs. Annie Zane Murray, of Eureka, Cal., who arrived on Tuesday for a brief visit to Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Bartlett at 749 Peachtree street. Mrs. Murray is accompanied by Mrs. J. J. Guile, another native daughter of California, who makes her home in San Francisco, and the two are en route to Florida for a winter vacation after a visit to New York.

Mrs. Murray, who is a distant cousin of the writer, Zane Grey, was one of the first to recognize the tremendous loss the cutting of the redwoods would mean to California, and she is credited with the idea of organizing the "Save the Redwoods League." Her home at Eureka is in the heart of the redwood district, her grandfather having settled there back in 1860 when the forests were still peopled by Indians. She it was who appealed to official Washington for a special commission to preserve the giant trees that are so close to her heart, the league of which she is a past president having been an outgrowth of that appeal.

The Bartletts met and became friends of Mrs. Murray when they were fellow passengers on a world cruise aboard the S. S. Belgenland several years ago. Their first meeting since that time was in August of last year when Mr. and Mrs. Bartlett, Mary Frances Cox and Billy Fielder motored to the Pacific coast and spent some time in California. They were guests of Mrs. Murray at her handsome home in Eureka, and were central figures at an elaborate dinner party at which she was hostess, the guests including more than 20 members of the Belgenland cruise.

This is the first visit to Georgia and Atlanta for both Mrs. Murray and Mrs. Gulle. Having been friends since early child-hood, they graduated in the same class from the College of San Jose in California in 1885, and have kept in constant touch with each other ever since. They are the most congenial of traveling companions, and following their stay here and in Florida, they will return to the land of redwoods after an absence of more than lovely courtesies planned in compliment, both to her position and to her personal charm.

Last week she was invited to be honor guest at a meeting of the Woman's Club of Dahlonega, which she accepted with her usual graciousness. Upon her ar-rival in Dahlonega, she was en-tertained at luncheon by Mrs. Robert Moore, a prominent mem-ber of the club and program chairman for the meeting. Imagine her surprise when a handsome cadet captain from North Geor-gia College called to invite her to a review planned especially in her

The cadets, 300 strong, in full dress uniform and colorful regimentals, staged a special parade upon the parade ground on the campus during the afternoon, with Mrs. Rivers and her party in the reviewing stand. "It was all very thrilling and exclting," according to the first lady's account of the affair, "but the best part of all was the surprise."

And who is there who doesn't like such a flattering surprise?

MR. AND MRS. HARRY STEARNS JR. are hosts to their lovely blue-eyed, brownhaired niece, Peggy Wilkinson, from Ontario, Canada. Peggy arrived late Tuesday evening for a week's sojourn at the attractive Manor Ridge drive home of her uncle and aunt, and this first visit of hers to Atlanta is sure to be a most enjoyable MOVIE-GOERS probably will soon be seeing on the silver screen the production of "Gone With the Wind," that widely read novel of Atlanta during the days of the War Between the States, which won for its author, Atlan-ta's own Margaret Mitchell, last year's Pulitzer prize. Wilbur Kurtz, prominent local artist, is in the film capital, where he will act as technical advisor for the production, and he writes that things are rapidly getting into shape so that the Selznick studio may soon begin "shooting" the picture.

Mr. Kurtz is conferring daily with David O. Selznick and George Cukor, who will direct the production. When he agreed to do the technical work for the picture he promised to take Mrs. Kurtz to Hollywood with him, but he left here on such short notice that she was unable to accompany him at the time. Should he remain in California until the actual work is begun on the pic-ture, Mrs. Kurtz will go out to join him. If delays develop, he will return to Atlanta until the actual time of production, and then he and Mrs. Kurtz will go to Hollywood for the duration of work on the picture. No happier selection could have been made in the important choice of technical advisor for the picture than that of Mr. Kurtz. Back in 1903, when he was a boy just out of school in his native Indiana, he adopted history as a hobby. Thrilled with the romance of history in the south, he came to Atlanta to see the late Captain William A. Fuller, hero of the sixties, and later became Captain

NEW YORK, Tuesday.—I caught a plane yesterday afternoon for New York and went to see a friend who had been ill, only to find her recovery had been so rapid she had gone out. However, this gave me time to go home and prepare more peacefully for a very gay evening.

After dinner, Miss Esther Lape and I went to see "Pins and Needles," which is a new thea-trical venture undertaken by the Ladies' Gar-ment Workers' Union. On every hand I have been hearing how delightful this performance is. Sometimes you are disappointed when you anticipate too much, but no one could be disappointed by this entertainment. The actors are having such a good time the audience must, of necessity, reflect their good spirits.

The coaching, I think, must have been done by experts. These actors and actresses carried their jobs day by day, until they began to play so regularly that it was necessary to give all their time to the theater. They are not going on the stage permanently, which is fortunate, for the performance would lose some of its freshness and interest if they ceased to be amateurs, or let us say, semi-pro-

Their jobs are being held open for them and another group is now rehearsing to take their places. They set out their aim in their program: "... To be instrumental in developing a new kind of theater, alive and responsive to the important trends in current American life. Thus it (the labor stage) intends to encourage the efforts of amateur, semi-professional and professional groups in dramatizing vital and significant phases of modern life."
"Pins and Needles" talks a good deal about "social significance," but none of it is very deep. It is a musical review with a number of sketches, some more amusing than others, some more subtle than others. The general impression is an entertaining evening which provides something of value, both to the audience and the actors. I congratulate Mr. Rome and all the writers of the sketches, as well as the producers and the actors.

as well as the producers and the actors.

It will be some time before I forget "Four Little Angels of Peace" or "Sunday in the Park." "Men Awake" is a very stirring song. I hope the last scene, "We've Just Begun," is prophetic, for the labor stage has none of the restrictions and obstacles which We to be surmounted by other producers.

A beautiful day, and this afternoon, before I deliver the speech which I came to New York to make, I am going on a round of errands and visits to family and more or less invalid friends. I will tell you more about the day in tomorrow's column. (Copyright, 1938, for The Constitution.)

BOLERO FROCK FOR SPRING AFTERNOONS.

Be the first in your crowd to wear one of the pretty new bolero frocks. The design above adapts a very short bolero in the newest style, one which will make your hips look very slim. Note the pretty princess lines of the dress, shirred at the waist to give a snug line. You will adore this dress and with the bolero in contrast achieve a costume effect that is exceedingly flattering. Made up in a printed crepe, the dress with two boleros, one of the same fabric as the dress and the other in a contrasting linen, is almost a spring wardrobe in itself. The pattern includes specific cures for jealousy but complete and detailed sew chart they will all tend to raise your for those just learning to sew.

Barbare Bell pattern No. 1478-B is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, 20; 40 and 42. Corresponding bust measurements 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 (34) requires 6 7-8 dress and bolero. Bolero to contrast requires 1 1-4 yards.

Your Figure, Madame! By IDA JEAN KAIN.

STAND UP AND SLIM DOWN.

If it isn't one thing, it's another.... If sitting is not to blame this bit bearing the authorization for your hip problem, the way of the Dental Institute of America you stand is! Sitting can add to your hipline at the rate of one inch per year, but every time you ing a "dead tooth" whatever that stand up can make those humps may be, perhaps, as the propagan-on the sides of the hips more pronounced.

Over at Elizabeth Arden's de luxe gymnasium, those hip humps are considered the usual penalty of poor posture. More often than not, the bulge is the result of continual contraction of the wrong muscles in standing. Intead of rolling or kicking for the hipline, you adopt a program of posture correction to smooth out the bulge.

Posture, according to Miss Mil-dred Wedekind, of the gymnasium, is what is wrong with most measurements. Shadowgraphs of most figures show a fatty condition at the nape of the neck, bulges on the lower rib cage, humps on the hips, sway back and wings on the shoulders. These shadowgraphs show very clearly the relation between these defects and habitual-

You may not be able to have a shadowgraph taken and in that case Miss Wedekind suggests snapshots, preferably side views, taken in your bathing suit. Be sure to stand in your usual pos-ture—don't pose for the picture! Then, in a few weeks, have some more snapshots taken and compare the two sets. This check on your progress should show a marked improvement in your figure. Another check is to keep a record of your measurements before and after you begin posture correction.

Study your own snapshots taken in a bathing suit.

A few weeks can make several inches' difference in your measurements. If you doubt that posture makes the figure, take your measurements with the body stretched tall and then again with the chest caved in and the midriff slumped. You will find that bust measurement is smaller in poor posture, and that the waistline is much larger. The better your habitual posture is, the worse you It sounds so hackneyed, I hate to write it, but, my dear woman, what is there to do but the first wound don't want to cultivate!

". . . While the swelling grows only palliative treamtent, for while symptoms increase the disease invaders have the upper hand. After bodies in the blood stream, and again the patient gains the upper hand. But not until these antibodies are present number to continue the fight." Well, sir, that's what I'd call darn poor consolation for the victim of the toothache. Without saying so in plain words the dentors who presumably compose the "Dental Institute of America" virtually advise the credulous reader to just try to grin and bear his toothache until the anti-bodies can take care of it. Of course a dentor would not care to take the chance of giving proper surgical relief in the first "few days" of the suffering from abscess, lest the patient later blame the dentor for any ill effects the neglected abscess might have.

Precisely that attitude inspired the old-time dental quacks who kept patients suffering for days or weeks with "ulcerted" tooth by advising the patients that it would be "dangerous" to drain the abscess by immediate extraction of the tooth while the jaw was all swollen and everything.

If the "Dental Institute of America" really represents any body of reputable dentists, they ought to appropriate part of the propaganda fund to send a few of their members to some recognized school of dentistry to learn something about the first princiciples of surgery.

It is a shame that the lay public should be subjected to such propaganda, which looks indeed as though it were deliberately in tended to undermine the confidence of the layman in the best dental practice of the day.

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 16.-Clark Gable and Joan Crawford have usually done pretty well together in pictures. The last time they were teamed was in "Love on the Run" early last year. The next time they make love on the screen will be in "Infidelity," the Ursula Parrott story that is now being adapted by F. Scott Fitzgerald. The picture is being written around Miss Crawford's acting talents and will ignore some of the hifalutin' stuff she has been to mouth in recent pictures and take her back to the sincere animated performances of her early days. There is an ideal part in the film for Johnny Weiss-muller—a simple man of nature who, withal, is big, strong and

Here's a way to get rid of ugly fat that works hawd in hand with Nature. Millions of people are losing millions of pounds of flabby flesh and getting back slender figures, without the need of starvation diets or back-breaking exercises.

Medical science has discovered that one of the causes of too much fat lies in a little gland. Doctors correct this condition by feeding this little gland the substance it lacks—and Marmola Prescription Tablets are based on this same method. Millions have used them. They are prepared by a famous medical laboratory. Their formula is published in every package so you know

Commander Shaffer spoke at the annual banquet and installation of officers of Local Post No. 112. Members of the post and of the post's auxiliaries, political and civic leaders of Atlanta and resentatives from other Atlanta veterans' associations attended. Governor Rivers brought the greetings of the state to the out-of-town officials who officiated in the installation ceremonies. He cited the important part Jews had played in Georgia's history, and complimented the J. V. W. for creating better understanding between Jews and all other races in Georgia.

What Stocks Did.

Wed.Tues. 184 218 290 302 174 180 Total issues 648 NEW YORK, Feb. 16.-(AP)-A turn to the buying side lifted the stock market out of an early decline today and most shares showed only minor changes up and down at the finish. Metal, chemical, rubber and other groups considered best situated to benefit from a rise in commodity prices were favored on the rally as traders sought to anticipate the next move in Washngton designed to reawaken industry. A number of shares in these divisions recovered losses ranging to around 2 points and ended higher. A broad upturn in major spec-ulative staples, including wheat, copper futures, hides and rubber, diverted the attention of many traders from stocks. Wall Street boardrooms again buzzed with "inflation" gossip following President Roosevelt's contention com-Cotton was irregular today with March under pressure while later was much guessing as to what new moves might be in the wind at Washington to raise farm and raw material quotations which months ruled about steady. May, which had recovered from 8.86 to 8.92 late in the day encountered renewed selling and closed at 8.87 led the 1937 slump. Conferences among administration economists and fiscal chiefs led to expectation in trading quarters of developments in the formulation of federal policies, particularly in light of reports from the capital the President may discuss prices further at his Friday press conference. Transactions on the stock exchange totaled only 472,050 shares against 523,310 yesterday. The Associated Press composite price of 60 stocks closed down .4 of a point at 43.8.

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—(A)-Price swings in the bond market formed an irregular pattern of minor up and down changes today.

Some secondary rail liens lost ground, but buyers were on hand to take others at higher levels and the same was true of utility and communications obligations. United States government's were about

Followers of the railway group studied preliminary reports from 91 Class 1 roads showing estimated gross revenues dropped approximately $46,000,000 in January on the heels of still more un-favorable net income figures for December. A sustaining influence, however, was the widely held be-lief that the Interstate Commerce Commission will soon give the carriers a substantial rate in-

The latest Treasury gold sterilization step was again a widely discussed topic in the investment community, but the narrow trend of the government bond market as well as top flight corporate is-sues indicated its direct influence was negligible. The Associated Press average of 10 low yield bonds dipped .2 of a point to 108.2, just 1.1 points under the year's high. Averages for other groups showed only the slightest change. Transfers totaled $6,024,300, par value, against $5,622,700 on Tues-can business is not going to take this new depression—recession, if you prefer the milder term—"lying down." There is still hope of overnment co-operation, which in this case means relaxation of government restrictions, but industry is ready to make its own fight on its own initiative and in its own traditional fashion. The automobile interests are out to lead the way. President Paul G. Hoffman, of the Studebaker Corporation, hinted at the plan in his address to the Purchasing Agents' Association, when he announced "the greatest drive for business the country has ever seen" to start March 5 in the form of a campaign to move 800,000 to 1,000,000 used cars from dealers' stocks. flying through the water. At least she was safe for the moment. Then he whirled and dived beneath the crocodile. His shoulder touched the clammy hide. Up leaped his knife and buried itself in the monster's belly.

Because he had to strike instantly, without deliberate care, Tarran missed the vital spot he had hoped to hit. He struck again, but the crocodile leaped away, then whirled and dived at its tormentor. Only by swift action did Tarran elude the missed the vital spot he had snapping jaws.

his purpose to keep the reptile occupied until the girl could gain the safety of the shore. So he must fight, or die—perhaps both. And unfortunately the wound was a spur to the fighting fury of the Glynn County Superintendent Pledges Support to Constitution Program.

Co-operation of the entire public school system of Georgia in the National Spelling Bee, spon-sored in this state by The Consti-tution, was assured yesterday.

In direct communications to all superintendents of county and independent school systems, through channels of the State Department of Education, Dr. M. D. Collins state superintendent of schools urged that the fullest advantage be taken of the educational opportunity offered sixth, seventh and eighth grade pupils.

"I am extremely hopeful," wrote Dr. Collins, "that schools throughout Georgia will take an earnest and thoughtful part. urge superintendents, principals and teachers to co-operate fully and teachers to co-operate fully with The Constitution in this wholesome and extremely valua-ble work."
